PROGRESSIVENESS IN GOOD CLOTHES BUILDING

CONSIDERED FROM THE CUSTOMER'S STANDPOINT

Take the man who now pays $20 for a suit, though his limit used to be $15. He looks better in the newer garments, and he knows it. Show him a suit for $20 five years ago and he would laugh at the WORKMANSHIP. Neither the fit nor the tailoring would satisfy him today. Verily we are all progressing.

CONFIDENCE AND AMBITION ARE RESTORED IN FRISCO

San Francisco, Cal., April 24.—The new San Francisco, which will rise from the old was in its first stages of building today.

After five days of confusion and almost superhuman effort on the part of the citizens of California's metropolis, the great task of sheltering, feeding and otherwise caring for the homeless thousands has been almost completely accomplished. Complete order has been reestablished and attention turned to the future.

Throughout the great district where the devastation of flames was the most complete, walls are being razed, buildings that had not been disintegrated before the intense heat are being inspected with the view of reoccupancy, and even ground is being cleared for the immediate construction of some sort of building in which to resume business at the earliest possible time. In short, confidence has been restored.

The assurance of the insurance companies, the measures taken by financial institutions, the many reassuring messages that have reached the business men of San Francisco from Eastern financial centers—all these things went to clear away any feeling of uncertainty that might have existed in the minds of the timid that San Francisco would not be what it was the great center of population and business on the Pacific Coast.

30,000 VISITORS NOW GATHERING AT REUNION

New Orleans, La., April 24.—Every detail has been completed for the great reunion of the grays. By tonight over ten thousand veterans and twice that number of visitors, according to the most conservative estimates will be the guests of New Orleans.

From one end of the city to the other, the battle flag of the Confederacy is waving.

Already the veterans are beginning to arrive. Special trains from Alabama, Texas and Mississippi came in last night with large delegations. Beginning this morning there will not be an hour through the day that specials bearing the veterans and their friends do not arrive.

A reception committee will meet the veterans and welcome them. Uniformed men will be on hand to give them all information. Information booths have been established all over the central part of the city.

So large is the crowd that is coming that additional cots for 1,000 men were placed in Washington Artillery Hall last night. The United Daughters of the Confederacy opened their headquarters at the old Layton House on Chartres street, near Conti.

The Sons of Veterans opened headquarters at the St. Charles Hotel. Commander in Chief Owen of the sons, accompanied by Miss Jelks, the sponsor of the sons, arrived early this morning.

Sorosis Closes Club Year.

Sorosis held its last meeting of the session at the home of Mrs. Barton, Friday, April 20th. The year just closed has been a profitable, as well as a pleasant one, to the members. They made a careful study of the play, "Midsummer Night's Dream," each member doing excellent work. At this meeting the members were asked to bring five questions on the play. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. I. M. King, acting as leaders, chose the members and a contest was held. Mrs. King's side won, having answered the greatest number of questions. The discussion, "How Shall we Spend the Summer?" led by Mrs. Reed was very interesting.

The club prize—a beautiful, hand painted china fruit dish—was awarded to Mrs. Barton for being faithful in her work, and for having attended each meeting during the club year.

The new programs for next year were distributed, and many were the compliments paid to the program committee for their work in arranging and to the News for the neat and artistic manner in which they were printed. The members look forward with renewed interest to the beginning of next year, as they will then take up the study of Hamlet in connection with the countries of Norway and Denmark, and their people.

CONFEREES ON STATEHOOD ABOUT TO GET TOGETHER

Washington, April 24.—That the two houses of congress will compromise their statehood differences by agreeing to the second Foraker amendment is now the general conviction. No formal offer to compromise on this basis has been made.

It has been suggested to Senator Foraker, as the leader of the fight against the house bill, and he has shown that such a proposition when made formally will be favorably considered. There is no doubt that the house conferees will offer to make this compromise. The senate conferees will neither accept nor reject it until they learn the sentiment of the senate. The procedure will be, when the offer is made, for the senate conferees to consult those who voted for the Burrows amendment. If they find that most of them are willing to recede from that amendment, they will then accept the proposition of the house conferees.

The statehood bill has been in conference now nearly six weeks. Seldom is a measure kept so long in suspense, even when the subject of it is of the utmost complexity.

But the dilatoriness has been by design. The conferees could and would have disposed of it three weeks ago if they had had any assurance their agreement would be ratified by both houses. As it is, although they have had the bill nearly six weeks, they have not given even the first consideration to the crux of the problem, which is the question, what shall be done with New Mexico and Arizona.

However, they have now reached this part of the bill, and they cannot longer defer the consideration of it without making it palpable to the country that they are trifling with the question.

It is said the Speaker is now quite sensible that he did not choose wisely when he selected the statehood bill with which to "match a fight" with the senate. Public sentiment, in this controversy, is altogether on the side of the senate, and the Speaker is becoming cognizant of the fact.

A Remittance From the Philippines.

The News received, Tuesday, a letter enclosing a subscription remittance from Camp Keithley, Moro, Philippine Islands. It is from W. W. Dismukes, the soldier son of our fellow-townsmen, G. B. Dismukes. The letter was posted March 12, showing it was in transit almost six weeks. The News is proud to learn that in some locality, at least, it does not become stale reading matter, though six weeks old.

We wish W. W. every possible success and honor, and they will come to him, we know.

Baseball Laurels for Rhoddy.

Rhoddy Hendrix, the nineteen year old son of Prof. Hendrix, is making quite a record in baseball.

Just a month ago he left here for Tulsa for his first "tryout" on the professional diamond. He has recently pitched some remarkable games, defeating such teams as Oklahoma City and Joplin. He has just been promoted to a position on the Topeka team. In the language of the fans he is developing quite a phenom.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the comptroller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

AMERICAN DRUMMERS

ARE AT FAULT WHEN THEY GO TO SCOTLAND.

Seem for Some Reason to Make a Bad Impression Among the Scottish People—Some Instances.

United States Consul Fleming, at Edinburgh, explains the reasons for the numerous failures of foreign commercial travelers to effect satisfactory trade results in Scotland. He thinks it is due to unwarranted carelessness in ignoring certain fundamental rules that obtain with Scottish merchants.

"It has been my observation," he writes, "that the average commercial traveler on his first trip to Scotland makes a bad start. It is within bounds to say that six out of every ten American sales agents who have come to this country have not sold enough goods in three months to cover the amount of their expenses for that period. The principal cause for their failure is the false assumption that quality of goods and fairness of prices and of general terms are sure to bring success. After a time—in some instances a long time—they discover that the foremost requirement is the exercise of prudent caution in taking the initial step toward getting in touch with business concerns.

"In large as well as small Scottish firms and joint stock companies the management, as a rule, is in the hands of one person. As to companies (including co-operative and all other societies engaged in business) division of authority is even less frequently seen here than in the United States. Each has a single head, and subordinates have nothing to do with the affairs of the company except to obey the instructions of their chief.

"Take the case of a department store. The so-called head of a department is merely the principal salesman in that branch of the business. He does not purchase for the firm or company, nor is he authorized to act or speak for the firm or company in matters outside of his duty as principal salesman. These facts are supposed by the heads of concerns to be universally known in trade circles, and if a commercial traveler calls on the head of a department or invites him by letter to see goods in a hotel sample room, instead of going directly to the general manager, upon his subsequent introduction to the latter he finds himself handicapped by his mistake—a mistake which he may regard as trivial, but which may create a prejudice against him that will be hard to overcome.

"In the Scottish business world customs, which are unwritten laws, differ from those of America, and of some other countries, and it is highly important that a sales agent take care to learn the difference. If he does not, he might better stay at home. Experienced traveling salesmen, American, German, French and Russian, give close attention to the personal element in business. A few instances have come under my notice. A German commercial traveler, the hardware trade when he first visited Edinburgh devoted several days to work of gaining an accurate knowledge of the men having charge of the concerns on the list which he brought with him. A Russian sales agent in the fur trade once informed me that he spent almost as much time in acquainting himself with the personnel of firms in the cities and towns of Scotland as in afterward placing his goods before the authorized buyers for the various houses.

"An American representative of a well-known machine manufacturing firm said that his capital mistake was in muddling his business from the start by not taking time to obtain full information as to the names, positions and characteristics of the managers of firms and corporations. Three or four months' experience gave him useful lessons, and after that he was remarkably successful.

"To call for the 'manager' of the company is a mistake. It is a mistake also to enter the business house of 'Jones, Smith & Co.' and ask for 'Mr. Jones' or 'Mr. Smith.' They may have been dead for 50 years, and nobody of their names connected with the firm since."

To lay one's business before a subordinate is in most cases a grievous mistake. Mr. Fleming says that it is his observation that sales agents who do so conform tactfully to the their stay in Scotland expensive rather than profitable to their employers.

STIFF PRICE FOR THE TEA.

Extortionate Demand of Pretty Actresses at a Charity Entertainment.

Cups of tea were sold at $5 each recently at a fete at the ministry of marine in aid of the Paris Art Orphanage. In addition to this those who took sugar and milk had to pay an extra $2.50 for the privilege of being allowed these luxuries, says the Boston Express.

All the prettiest actresses were selling and all Paris was buying at prices that would have been abnormal were it not for the admirable cause. Mlle. Dietrich, the charming blonde, who is credited with possessing the prettiest smile and the most silvery laugh in Paris, sold tickets for a lottery for as much as she could get.

Mlle. Lavalliere, of the Varieties, sold face powder at the rate of $20 the tiny box. It was Mme. Le Bargy, who not long ago appeared at the St. James' with Mr. George Alexander, who carried out the tea extortion. Mme. Polaire sold sweets, and only took banknotes in payment.

A very large sum must have been realized for the orphanage, which provides for the daughters of artists, authors, actors and musicians who have died penniless, keeps the girls until they marry and then provides them with a dowry.

THE CHAMPION MEAN MAN.

Bribes Children to Go Without Supper and Steals the Pennies.

"Talk about meanness," said a man from the northern part of the county as he dropped into police headquarters, reports the Binghamton Press, "I believe that we have a man up in our village who is about the limit.

"He had two children and did not seem to care whether they had anything to eat or not. The man was well off financially, but did not like to pay out money for the support of the children.

"Night after night I have known the man to give each of the children a penny to go to bed without their supper, and then in the morning he would make them give the penny up before they had their breakfast.

"One morning the children came downstairs and said that they had lost their pennies. The father seemed to be infuriated, but I think that it was only put on.

"He demanded the money before the children could have their breakfasts, and when they did not produce the money he whipped them both and made them go without their morning meal. I think that he stole the money after they had gone to bed."

REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

One Day the Widow Was Inconsolable, the Next as Gay as a Lark.

P. F. Rothermel, counsel for the Lake Superior corporation, as the reorganized Consolidated Lake Superior is called, was complimented the other day on the excellent year that the concern has had, says the Pittsburgh Gazette.

Mr. Rothermel smiled and answered:

"Yes, the company has gotten quickly on its feet. It has recovered quickly. It was not badly hurt, after all. And thus it resembles a widow of whom I heard recently.

"This lady's husband died, and, a day or two after the funeral, a neighbor called to extend her condolences.

"She expected to find the widow frantic with grief. She found her at the piano, singing a gay song. And, astonished at so quick a recovery, the visitor said:

"Well, well, I expected to see you in the deepest distress."

"Ah," said the widow, pathetically, "you should have seen me yesterday."

CUPID IN A TRUST.

IOWA PASTORS IN PACT REGARDING MARRIAGES.

Ministers Believe Divorce Is a Necessity and Would Control Weddings and Thus Cut Rate—New Law Is Advocated.

Des Moines, Ia.—To form a trust for the purpose of controlling matrimonial ventures is the latest movement on the part of Des Moines ministers. The plans were discussed at a regular weekly meeting of the Ministerial association, and if they are carried out Des Moines will no longer be the Gretna Green for lovers who have not for months calmly reflected over the logic of matrimony.

After a liberal discussion the ministers came to the final judgment that divorce is now a necessity, because of the improper matrimonial ties, and they propose to cure the social evil by guarding the entrance into the matrimonial fields by the strongest safeguards.

The agitation was started by Rev. Orian W. Pifer, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, who declared that he is firm in the belief that no man should put asunder those whom God hath joined together, but he expressed the firm belief that God has little to do with many of the modern weddings. He claimed to have had an interview with Judge William H. McHenry, of the equity court here, in which he learned that fully two-thirds of the divorces were granted in cases where love probably had played a very small part in the marriage. He stated that he believed one of the greatest evils is because men and women plunge into marriage without the proper preparation.

The ministers took up the discussion in a lively manner and practically entered into an agreement that ministers will not in the future marry so indiscriminately.

It has also been agreed that the pastors will demand to know the past history of the participants, their financial condition and their past ventures, if any. It is expected that at the next meeting of the association rules will be drawn up governing the performance of marriages. The ministers will ask the cooperation of the justices of the peace.

It is possible that their present action will result in asking the legislature this winter to pass a law making more stringent requirements for securing a license.

LOVE, LIVE ON $3 A WEEK.

Young Plumber Takes Bride—Both Are Happy on Small Income—Secret Gets Out.

Philadelphia.—If at the lowest possible estimate it cost a mother three dollars a week to board and clothe a growing boy, how can a young man nearly 20 take unto himself a wife and keep her in this sum—without keeping her in want?

This might be a difficult problem for some persons, but James Higgins, a 19-year-old plumber's apprentice, who lives on Stiles street, east of Eighteenth, believes a man can get married and keep a wife in comfort on this meagre sum.

Higgins loved 18-year-old Ella Ragan. They recently decided that if two persons were in love, money was of no consequence; they could live on love and kisses.

An elopement followed, and they were married. They decided to go to their homes and keep the marriage a secret until such a time as Higgins should blossom out as a full-fledged plumber, or until a time when his long-dreamed-of increase in wages should come true.

A friend betrayed them, and now all their friends and acquaintances are asking them "if it is true."

CUT SOLDIERS' BURIAL CASH

Bodies of Men Killed in United States Will Not Be Sent Home at Government Expense.

Washington.—The body of a soldier killed in active service cannot be sent home to his relatives at government expense for burial if he dies in the United States. Moreover, the body must be placed in the coffin issued by the quartermaster general's department. This was the decision of the comptroller of the treasury in the case of Private Albert Laste, Twenty-ninth battery field artillery, who was killed at Fort Riley, Kan., last October.

His commanding officer wished to send his body to his relatives for burial and desiring a better coffin than was supplied by the quartermaster's department, which was only allowed to spend $35 for that purpose, he offered to supply the necessary additional funds.

Scarcity of American Ships.

Out of 4,217 arrivals of all classes of vessels from foreign ports at New York last year the American flag flew over only 760 ships. According to figures given out at the barge office recently 478 of the 760 vessels were steam powered, and there were five ships, 25 barks, six brigs and 245 schooners among the sailing vessels. In this time there were 2,844 steamships under foreign flags entered at the customhouse, of which 1,355 were British and 521 German.

A Call to the I. O. O. F.

The visitation of the terrible and awful catastrophe that has visited San Francisco, Santa Rosa and surrounding country, has undoubtedly made many Odd Fellows and Rebekahs homeless and destitute, and in view of this awful fact, as Grand Master of the I. O. O. F. of the Indian Territory, I deem it my duty to call upon all Odd Fellows and Rebekahs and all Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges of this jurisdiction to contribute toward a relief fund for the benefit of our brothers and sisters in distress.

Let our donation be sent direct to G. H. Alexander, Grand Secretary of the I. O. O. F. of the Indian Territory, who will receipt you for the same and in proper time will forward the contribution to the proper committee or committees.

Farmers Union District Meeting.

The Ada district of the county organization of the Farmers Union held a meeting on Saturday at which there was a fairly good attendance.

The chief matter of importance to come up was the clearing house enterprise, which has heretofore been clearly explained in the columns of the News. The district has concluded, for the present to rent a suitable building in Ada in which to start the enterprise, and a committee of members was appointed to select the building. So soon as the building is secured, the farmers of the district will begin the organized undertaking to distribute their own products.

The Editor's Needs.

A North Dakota paper recently contained the following editorial paragraph:

"It is reported that one of the fastidious newly-married ladies of Harvard, North Dakota, kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on; and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this 'Old Rag of Freedom' pays up before long, he will need bread without a d—n on—and Dakota is no Garden of Eden in winter time."

Youth is Killed.

Roof, I. T., April 24.—Ernest Duke, about 17 years old, son of Joe Duke, was accidentally killed Sunday. He and four other boys were out some ten miles on a fishing trip. Ernest and one of the boys were standing talking by a log. Ernest put one foot on the log and attempted to set the gun on it. The stock missed the log and the hammer struck it, discharging the gun, the load going into his chin and neck, killing him instantly.

Human Blood Marks

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bac, Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I had severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures Hemorrhages, Chronic Coughs, Settled Colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for Weak Lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by G. M. Ramsay and Dr. F. Z. Holley, Druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

FIGHTING BLOOD

Fighting blood is pure, rich, vigorous blood. Pure blood is the foundation for an active mind, strong body and bold heart. Not only is it necessary in a trial of physical strength, but equally so in the mighty struggle for worldly wealth. The victim of impure blood is generally half sick, lacks spirit and energy, and is unable to stand the strain of the contest—besides he is in constant danger of contracting some life-threatening disease. To have pure blood the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels must be free from obstructions, and strong in the performance of their functions. This desirable condition can be secured and maintained through the use of Prickly Ash Bitters, the "World-Celebrated" system cleanser and blood purifier. A short course with this great remedy vitalizes the blood and puts the system in good condition, invigorates the body, promotes good appetite, restful sleep and cheerful spirits.

ODD THINGS AT GROCER'S

Some of the Questions Women Customers Ask About Various Things.

"Those are the biggest oranges I have ever seen, absolutely," said a woman in front of a basket of grape fruit, according to the Kansas City Star.

"What is the price of those oranges?"

"They are 25 cents apiece," said the clerk. "But they are grape fruit, madam."

"Oh," said the customer, as she went to the other side of the store.

"What is the price of these tomatoes?"

"They are two for a quarter," said the clerk. "They are not tomatoes, they are Japanese persimmons."

"Oh, persimmons! What large ones. Do they 'pucker' your mouth when you eat them, like the ordinary persimmon?"

"No; you will find them very sweet and a delicious fruit."

"I guess that is all, thanks," as she turned and left the store. In came another woman, apparently confident of what she wants to buy.

"I want a couple of heads of dwarf cabbage, please."

"Dwarf cabbage? I don't believe I know what you mean," said this clerk.

"Don't you know? Very small cabbage. I want it for soups."

"I guess you mean brussels sprouts, don't you? They're used for soups and look very much like a miniature cabbage." He shows them to her, and they are just what she wants. They are a very small vegetable about the size of an English walnut. She took more than two, however, as they are 40 cents a quart.

"I want a leek," says a woman.

"What is the price?"

"Leeks sell three for a dime."

"What are they used for? I never did know. I wanted to see them more than anything else, and I'm so glad I called for the right thing."

"They are used for soup."

"I don't guess I care for any to-day," and she leaves.

"Customers seeing leek," said a clerk, "ask quite a few questions about it. Some call it rhubarb." It is a vegetable that grows very much like an onion. It is green and looks something like rhubarb, but it does not have the foliage. The kumquat, a Japanese orange, is a specialty among the fruits. It was grafted from Japan

seven years ago and is grown in the tropical sections of this country. Those grown in Florida are a small, round fruit about the size of a black walnut. The ones grown in California are plum-shaped. Many people ask what they are. "One day a woman came in here and started to peel one as she would an orange," said a clerk. "She had difficulty, and when I told her to eat them as they are, without peeling, she asked me if I thought she didn't know anything."

High Old Sleeping Place.

After two years' dangerous work, a bedroom has been built on the summit of Mount Blanc. It is attached to the Janssen observatory, and is meant for Alpinists who have been overtaken by a storm on the summit or lost their way in the snows. A large camp bed occupies all the floor of the room, and can hold 22 persons. The bedroom, which is the highest in the world, is also the most expensive, as every stick and stone had to be carried up by porters from Chamonix. During its erection it was demolished twice and fixed with snow nine times.

BARBARIY OF EPICURES.

They Gloat Over Flesh Food Before It Is Killed for Them.

"Did it ever strike you," asked the observer, according to the New York Press, "that there is something distinctly barbarous about your real epicure, your true gourmet or gastronome? I saw a great turtle lying in a restaurant the other day, flat upon his back, his head tied with stout stings. He was alive, of course, and eyed with a look of sullen and yet puzzled defiance the group which stood about him while the proprietor of the place explained, illustrating with touches of his foot the way in which the creature was presently to be cut up and the varying manner in which the various parts would be cooked. The reptile under discussion was to furnish the group with a 'turtle dinner,' and the mouths of the 'knowing ones' among them fairly watered as the landlord continued his disquisition upon the peculiar excellences of that particular turtle. Those men sat down and ate that turtle in the form of soup, steaks and stew and enjoyed it all the more that they had seen the writhing reptile alive. To me, had I been at the feast, the picture of the bound and helpless creature rolling his glaring eyes upon his torturers and his slayers would have arisen before me and taken away my appetite.

"There is a famous restaurant down in the Fulton market which used to have a tank in it—I believe that it has it no more, as epicures nowadays generally cross the bridge—and in that tank fish were swimming about. You could look into the tank, watch the gambols of the fish, select the one you wanted and the waiter would catch and cook it for you. Having seen it alive a few minutes before made its dead body taste better to the epicure."

"A certain restaurant in Brooklyn used to have a back yard in which chickens were running about. It was the proper thing to sit on the back veranda, pick out a certain fowl, have his head cut off in your presence and then, after it had been cooked, eat it. "Go into any all-night restaurant on Broadway and order a 'broiled live lobster,' and the waiter will bring you the lobster with his antennae 'wiggling' and his 'feelers' squirming, to show that he is very much alive. Then he will be broiled alive and you can eat him—if you want to, and most people do."

"It is the same with soft-shelled crabs and various other sorts of sea food. The epicure, or the man who thinks he is an epicure, wants to see the creature alive first to give a zest to his appetite. Mind you, it is not in restaurants where there is a likelihood of the food furnished being stale that this custom prevails, but in those where the reputation of the place and the gastronomic discriminations of the customer almost guarantee that it will be fresh. No, it is the savage instinct of the epicure—the same thing which makes a cannibal gloat over his victim before he kills him for supper."

Baked Beans.

Still another suggestion in baked beans: Put the parboiled beans well seasoned and moistened in a baking dish; prick some sausages, and lay over the top, and cover closely. Bake for the usual length of time, turning the sausages so that they may be browned toward the end of the cooking, when the cover may be removed. Baked sausages are excellent without the beans; if in a sheet-iron pan they can be kept covered until entirely cooked, browning sufficiently. This is a good plan to avoid spattering the stove.

Poor Man!

"What is a summer resort, pa?" "A man entirely surrounded by a body of women."—Judge.

CREEKS' MEDICINE MAN.

Has Some Singular Convictions to Which He Rigidly Adheres.

The medicine man of the Creeks will not eat anything scorched in cooking, in treating a gun or arrow shot wound he as well as the patient will fast four days, only drinking a little gruel, says the Indian Journal.

He will not allow a woman to look at his patient until he is well or dead. If his patient dies the medicine man takes a lot of medicine himself in order to cleanse himself from the fumes or odor of the dead. The pall-bearers, as we might call those assisting in the burial, also take the same cleansing process.

And again when an Indian committed murder, even in self-defense, he went to the medicine man and took the cleansing remedy, claiming the remedy appeased the crime and the trouble to his mind. The medicine man has a horror of women, keeping out of their company as much as possible. At the full of each moon it was the custom of the bucks to drink medicine made by the medicine man to cleanse their system. In camp the Indian killed nothing which was not eatable.

Boat Riding in Air.

Row, row, row your boat gently down the air is the way one must do with the new aerial rowboat. It has a gas bag roughly cigar-shaped, whose equator is much nearer the front of the bag than usual, and a light frame work supports the occupant. It is raised and lowered, propelled forward and backward by the use of a pair of wing-like oars. By the use of weights the bag can be made to raise just an additional weight half a pound less than that of the occupant. Then gravity is overcome by the use of the oars. Anyone who understands how to row can operate the aerial rowboat, but so far no experienced aeronaut has tried the machine, although several hundred people have rowed up and down the park in Los Angeles, Cal., where the boat is being tested. The bag is 37 feet long and 15 feet wide at the equator. To raise the car and an occupant weighing 150 pounds 2,500 cubic feet of gas is sufficient. A speed of from four to six miles an hour has been attained by good oarsmen.

Up-to-Date Monks.

The monks of the St. Bernard hospice in Switzerland are bound to be up to date. They have purchased an automobile to carry provisions up the mountain. In order not to frighten teams they had a horse hitched to the motor wagon. The government's permission had to be obtained, because of the bridges, some of which were not intended for such heavy loads.

PROGRESSIVENESS IN GOOD CLOTHES BUILDING

CONSIDERED FROM THE CUSTOMER'S STANDPOINT

Take the man who now pays $20 for a suit, though his limit used to be $15. He looks better in the newer garments, and he knows it. CONFIDENCE AND AMBITION ARE RESTORED IN FRISCO

San Francisco, Cal., April 24 — The new San Francisco, which will rise from the old in its first stages of building today.

After five days of confusion and almost superhuman effort on the part of the citizens of California's metropolis, the great task of sheltering, feeding and otherwise caring for the homeless thousands has been almost completely accomplished. Complete order has been reestablished and attention turned to the future.

Throughout the great district where the devastation of flames was the most complete, walls are being razed, buildings that had not been disintegrated before the intense heat are being inspected with the view of reoccupancy, and even ground is being cleared for the immediate construction of some sort of building in which to resume business at the earliest possible time. In short, confidence has been restored.

The assurance of the insurance companies, the measures taken by financial institutions, the many reassuring messages that have reached the business men of San Francisco from Eastern financial centers—all these things went to clear away any feeling of uncertainty that might have existed in the minds of the timid that San Francisco would not be what it was the great center of population and business on the Pacific Coast.

30,000 VISITORS NOW GATHERING AT REUNION

New Orleans, La., April 24.—Every detail has been completed for the great reunion of the grays. By tonight over ten thousand veterans and twice that number of visitors, according to the most conservative estimates will be the guests of New Orleans.

From one end of the city to the other, the battle flag of the Confederacy is waving.

Already the veterans are beginning to arrive. Special trains from Alabama, Texas and Mississippi came in last night with large delegations. Beginning this morning there will not be an hour through the day that special trains bearing the veterans and their friends do not arrive.

A reception committee will meet the veterans and welcome them. Uniformed men will be on hand to give them all information. Information booths have been established all over the central part of the city.

So large is the crowd that is coming that additional cots for 1,000 men were placed in Washington Artillery Hall last night.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy opened their headquarters at the old Layton House on Chartres street, near Conti.

The Sons of Veterans opened headquarters at the St. Charles Hotel. Commander in Chief Owen of the sons, accompanied by Miss Jella, the sponsor of the sons, arrived early this morning.

Sorosis Closes Club Year.

Sorosis held its last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. Barton, Friday, April 20th. The year just closed has been a profitable, as well as a pleasant one, to the members. They made a careful study of the play, "Midsummer Night's Dream," each member doing excellent work. At this meeting the members were asked to bring five questions on the play. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. I. M. King, acting as leaders, chose the members and a contest was held. Mrs. King's side won, having answered the greatest number of questions. The discussion, "How Shall we Spend the Summer?" led by Mrs. Reed was very interesting.

The club prize—a beautiful, hand painted china fruit dish—was awarded to Mrs. Barton for being faithful in her work, and for having attended each meeting during the club year.

The new programs for next year were distributed, and many were the compliments paid to the program committee for their work in arranging and to the News for the neat and artistic manner in which they were printed. The members look forward with renewed interest to the beginning of next year, as they will then take up the study of Hamlet in connection with the countries of Norway and Denmark, and their people.

CONFEREES ON STATEHOOD ABOUT TO GET TOGETHER

Washington, April 24.—That the two houses of congress will compromise their statehood differences by agreeing to the second Foraker amendment is now the general conviction. No formal offer to compromise on this basis has been made.

It has been suggested to Senator Foraker, as the leader of the fight against the house bill, and he has shown that such a proposition when made formally will be favorably considered. There is no doubt that the house conferees will offer to make this compromise. The senate conferees will neither accept nor reject it until they learn the sentiment of the senate. The procedure will be, when the offer is made, for the senate conferees to consult those who voted for the Burrows amendment. If they find that most of them are willing to recede from that amendment, they will then accept the proposition of the house conferees.

The statehood bill has been in conference now nearly six weeks. Seldom is a measure kept so long in suspense, even when the subject of it is of the utmost complexity.

But the dilatoriness has been by design. The conferees could and would have disposed of it three weeks ago if they had had any assurance their agreement would be ratified by both houses. As it is, although they have had the bill nearly six weeks, they have not given even the first consideration to the crux of the problem, which is the question, what shall be done with New Mexico and Arizona.

However, they have now reached this part of the bill, and they cannot longer defer the consideration of it without making it palpable to the country that they are trifling with the question.

It is said the Speaker is now quite sensible that he did not choose wisely when he selected the statehood bill with which to "match a fight" with the senate. Public sentiment, in this controversy, is altogether on the side of the senate, and the Speaker is becoming cognizant of the fact.

A Remittance From the Philippines.

The News received, Tuesday, a letter enclosing a subscription remittance from Camp Keithley, Moro, Philippine Islands. It is from W. W. Dismukes, the soldier son of our fellow-townman, G. B. Dismukes. The letter was posted March 12, showing it was in transit almost six weeks. The News is proud to learn that in some locality, at least, it does not become stale reading matter, though six weeks old.

We wish W. W. every possible success and honor, and they will come to him, we know.

Baseball Laurels for Rhoddy.

Rhoddy Hendrix, the nineteen year old son of Prof. Hendrix, is making quite a record in baseball. Just a month ago he left here for Tulsa for his first "tryout" on the professional diamond. He has recently pitched some remarkable games, defeating such teams as Oklahoma City and Joplin. He has just been promoted to a position on the Topeka team. In the language of the fans he is developing quite a phenom.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

AMERICAN DRUMMERS

ARE AT FAULT WHEN THEY GO TO SCOTLAND.

Seem for Some Reason to Make a Bad Impression Among the Scottish People—Some Instances.

United States Consul Fleming, at Edinburgh, explains the reasons for the numerous failures of foreign commercial travelers to effect satisfactory trade results in Scotland. He thinks it is due to unwarranted carelessness in ignoring certain fundamental rules that obtain with Scottish merchants.

"It has been my observation," he writes, "that the average commercial traveler on his first trip to Scotland makes a bad start. It is within bounds to say that six out of every ten American sales agents who have come to this country have not sold enough goods in three months to cover the amount of their expenses for that period. The principal cause for their failure is the false assumption that quality of goods and fairness of prices and of general terms are sure to bring success. After a time—in some instances a long time—they discover that the foremost requirement is the exercise of prudent caution in taking the initial step toward getting in touch with business concerns.

"In large as well as small Scottish firms, and joint stock companies the management, as a rule, is in the hands of one person. As to companies (including co-operative and all other societies engaged in business) division of authority is seldom frequently seen here than in the United States. Each has a single head, and subordinates have nothing to do with the affairs of the company except to obey the instructions of their chief.

"Take the case of a department store. The so-called head of a department is merely the principal salesman in that branch of the business. He does not purchase for the firm or company, nor is he authorized to act or speak for the firm or company in matters outside of his duty as principal salesman. These facts are unappreciated by the heads of concerns to be universally known in trade circles, and if a commercial traveler calls on the head of a department or invites him by letter to see goods in a hotel sample room, instead of going directly to the general manager, upon his subsequent introduction to the latter he finds himself handicapped by his mistake—a mistake which he may regard as trivial, but which may create a prejudice against him that will be hard to overcome.

"In the Scottish business world customs, which are unwritten laws, differ from those of America, and of other countries, and it is highly important that a sales agent take care to learn the difference. If he does not, he might better stay at home. Experienced traveling salesmen, American, German, French and Russian, give close attention to the personal element in business. A few instances have come under my notice. A German commercial traveler, the hardware trade when he first visited Edinburgh devoted several days to work of gaining an accurate knowledge of the men having charge of the concerns on the list which he brought with him. A Russian sales agent in the fur trade once informed me that he spent almost as much time in acquainting himself with the personnel of firms in the cities and towns of Scotland as in afterward placing his goods before the authorized buyers for the various houses.

"An American representative of a well-known machine manufacturing firm said that his capital mistake was in muddling his business from the start by not taking time to obtain full information as to the names, positions and characteristics of the managers of firms and corporations. Three or four months' experience gave him useful lessons, and after that he was remarkably successful.

"To call for the 'manager' of the company is a mistake. It is a mistake also to enter the business house of Jones, Smith & Co. and ask for 'Mr. Jones' or 'Mr. Smith.' They may have been dead for 50 years, and nobody of their names connected with the firm since.

"To lay one's business before a subordinate is in most cases a grievous mistake. Mr. Fleming says that it is his observation that sales agents who do not conform tactfully to the customs of their stay in Scotland expensive rather than profitable to their employers.

STIFF PRICE FOR THE TEA.

Extortionate Demand of Pretty Actresses at a Charity Entertainment.

Cups of tea were sold at $5 each recently at a fete at the ministry of marine in aid of the Paris Art Orphanage. In addition to this those who took sugar and milk had to pay an extra $2.50 for the privilege of being allowed these luxuries, says the Boston Express.

All the prettiest actresses were selling and all Paris was buying at prices that would have been abnormal were it not for the admirable cause. Mlle. Dietrich, the charming blonde, who is credited with possessing the prettiest smile and the most silvery laugh in Paris, sold tickets for a lottery for as much as she could get.

Mlle. Lavalliere, of the Varieties, sold face powder at the rate of $20 the tin box. It was Mme. Le Bargy, who not long ago appeared at the St. James' with Mr. George Alexander, who carried out the tea extortion. Mme. Polaire sold sweets, and only took banknotes in payment.

A very large sum must have been realized for the orphanage, which provides for the daughters of artists, authors, actors and musicians who have lived penniless. keeps the girls until they marry and then provides them with a dowry.

THE CHAMFION MEAN MAN.

Bribes Children to Go Without Supper and Steals the Pennies.

"Talk about meanness," said a man from the northern part of the county as he dropped into police headquarters, reports the Binghamton Press, "I believe that we have a man up in our village who is about the limit.

"He had two children and did not seem to care whether they had anything to eat or not. The man was well off financially, but did not like to pay out money for the support of the children.

"Night after night I have known the man give each of the children a penny to go to bed without their supper, and then in the morning he would make them give the penny up before they had their breakfast.

"One morning the children came downstairs and said that they had lost their pennies. The father seemed to be infuriated, but I think that it was only put on.

"He demanded the money before the children could have their breakfasts, and when they did not produce the money he whipped them both and made them go without their morning meal. I think that he stole the money after they had gone to bed."

REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

One Day the Widow Was Inconsolable; the Next as Gay as a Lark.

P. F. Rothermel, counsel for the Lake Superior corporation, as the reorganized Consolidated Lake Superior is called, was complimented the other day on the excellent year that the concern has had, says the Pittsburg Gazette.

Mr. Rothermel smiled and answered:

"Yes, the company has gotten quickly on its feet. It has recovered quickly. It was not badly hurt, after all. And thus it resembles a widow of whom I heard recently.

"This lady's husband died, and a day or two after the funeral, a neighbor called to extend her condolences.

"She expected to find the widow frantic with grief. She found her at the piano, singing a gay song. And, astonished at so quick a recovery, the visitor said:

"Well, well, I expected to see you in the deepest distress."

"Ah," said the widow, pathetically, "you should have seen me yesterday."

CUPID IN A TRUST.

IOWA PASTORS IN FACT REGARDING MARRIAGES.

Ministers Believe Divorce Is a Necessity and Would Control Weddings and Thus Cut Rate—New Law Is Advocated.

Des Moines, Ia.—To form a trust for the purpose of controlling matrimonial ventures is the latest movement on the part of Des Moines ministers. The plans were discussed at a regular weekly meeting of the Ministerial association, and if they are carried out Des Moines will no longer be the Greta Green for lovers who have not for months calmly reflected over the logic of matrimony.

After a liberal discussion the ministers came to the final judgment that divorce is now a necessity, because of the improper matrimonial ties, and they propose to cure the social evil by guarding the entrance into the matrimonial fields by the strongest safeguards.

The agitation was started by Rev. Oran W. Fifer, pastor of Grace Methodist, Episcopal church, who declared that he is firm in the belief that no man should put asunder those whom God hath joined together, but he expressed the firm belief that God has little to do with many of the modern weddings. He claimed to have had an interview with Judge William H. McHenry, of the equity court here, in which he learned that fully two-thirds of the divorces were granted in cases where love probably had played a very small part in the marriage. He stated that he believed one of the greatest evils is because men and women plunge into marriage without the proper preparation.

The ministers took up the discussion in a lively manner and practically entered into an agreement that ministers will not in the future marry so indiscriminately.

The preachers believe that where a divorce is wanted there should be arranged a schedule of years according to the offense of the guilty party in which he or she must remain single. It has also been agreed that the pastors will demand to know the past history of the participants, their financial condition and their past ventures, if any. It is expected that at the next meeting of the association rules will be drawn up governing the performance of marriages. The ministers will ask the cooperation of the justices of the peace.

It is possible that their present action will result in asking the legislature this winter to pass a law making more stringent requirements for securing a license.

LOVE, LIVE ON $3 A WEEK.

Young Plumber Takes Bride—Both Are Happy on Small Income—Secret Gets Out.

Philadelphia.—If at the lowest possible estimate it cost a mother three dollars a week to board and clothe a growing boy, how can a young man nearly 20 take unto himself a wife and keep her in this sum—without keeping her in want?

This might be a difficult problem for some persons, but James Higgins, a 19-year-old plumber's apprentice, who lives on Stiles street, east of Eighteenth, believes a man can get married and keep a wife in comfort on this meagre sum.

Higgins loved 18-year-old Ella Ragan. They recently decided that if two persons were in love, money was of no consequence; they could live on love and kisses.

An elopement followed, and they were married. They decided to go to their homes and keep the marriage a secret until such a time as Higgins should blossom out as a full-fledged plumber, or until a time when his long-dreamed-of increase in wages should come true.

A friend betrayed them, and now all their friends and acquaintances are asking them "if it is true."

CUT SOLDIERS' BURIAL CASH

Bodies of Men Killed in United States Will Not Be Sent Home at Government Expense.

Washington.—The body of a soldier killed in active service cannot be sent home to his relatives at government expense for burial if he dies in the United States. Moreover, the body must be placed in the coffin issued by the quartermaster general's department. This was the decision of the comptroller of the treasury in the case of Private Albert Laste, Twenty-ninth battery field artillery, who was killed at Fort Riley, Kan., last October.

His commanding officer wished to send his body to his relatives for burial and desiring a better coffin than was supplied by the quartermaster's department, which was only allowed to spend $35 for that purpose, he offered to supply the necessary additional funds.

Scarcity of American Ships.
Out of 4,217 arrivals of all classes of vessels from foreign ports at New York last year the American flag flew over only 750 ships. According to figures given out at the bureau office recently 478 of the 760 vessels were steam-powered, and there were five ships, 25 barks, six brigs and 249 schooners among the sailing vessels. In this time there were 2,844 steamships under foreign flags entered at the customhouse, of which 1,355 were British and 521 German.

Farmers Union District Meeting.

The Ada district of the county organization of the Farmers Union held a meeting on Saturday at which there was a fairly good attendance.

The chief matter of importance to come up was the clearing house enterprise, which has heretofore been clearly explained in the columns of the News. The district has concluded, for the present to rent a suitable building in Ada in which to start the enterprise; and a committee of members was appointed to select the building. So soon as the building is secured, the farmers of the district will begin the organized undertaking to distribute their own products.

The Editor's Needs.

"It is reported that one of the fastidious newly-married ladies of Harvard, North Dakota, kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this 'Old Rag of Freedom' pays up before long, he will need bread without a d—n on—and Dakota is no Garden of Eden in winter time."

FIGHTING BLOOD

Fighting blood is pure, rich, vigorous blood. Pure blood is the foundation for an active mind, strong body and bold heart. Not only is it necessary in a trial of physical strength, but equally so in the mighty struggle for worldly wealth. The victim of impure blood is generally half sick, lacks spirit and energy, and is unable to stand the strain of the contest—besides he is in constant danger of contracting some life-threatening disease. To have pure blood the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels must be free from obstructions, and strong in the performance of their functions. This desirable condition can be secured and maintained through the use of Prickly Ash Bitters, the "World-Celebrated" system cleanser and blood purifier. A short course with this great remedy vitalizes the blood and puts the system in good condition, invigorates the body, promotes good appetite, restful sleep and cheerful spirits.

ODD THINGS AT GROCER'S

Some of the Questions Women Customers Ask About Various Things.

"These are the biggest oranges I have ever seen, absolutely," said a woman in front of a basket of grape fruit, according to the Kansas City Star.

"What is the price of those oranges?"

"They are 25 cents apiece," said the clerk. "But they are grape fruit, madam."

"Oh," said the customer, as she went to the other side of the store.

"What is the price of these tomatoes?"

"They are two for a quarter," said the clerk. "They are not tomatoes, they are Japanese persimmons."

"Oh, persimmons! What large ones. Do they 'pucker' your mouth when you eat them, like the ordinary persimmons?"

"No; you will find them very sweet and a delicious fruit."

"I guess that is all, thanks," as she turned and left the store. In came another woman, apparently confident of what she wants to buy.

"I want a couple of heads of dwarf cabbage, please."

"Dwarf cabbage? I don't believe I know what you mean," said this clerk.

"Don't you know? Very small cabbage. I want it for soups."

"I guess you mean brussels sprouts, don't you? They're used for soups and look very much like a miniature cabbage." He shows them to her, and they are just what she wants. They are a very small vegetable about the size of an English walnut. She took more than two, however, as they are 40 cents a quart.

"I want a leek," says a woman. "What is the price?"

"Leeks sell three for a dime."

"What are they used for? I never did know. I wanted to see them more than anything else, and I'm so glad I called for the right thing."

"They are used for soup."

"I don't guess I care for any to-day," and she leaves.

"Customers seeing leek," said a clerk, "ask quite a few questions about it. Some call it rhubarb." It is a vegetable that grows very much like an onion. It is green and looks something like rhubarb, but it does not have the foliage. The kumquat, a Japanese orange, is a specialty among the fruits. It was grafted from Japan

seven years ago and is grown in the tropical sections of this country. Those grown in Florida are a small, round fruit about the size of a black walnut. The ones grown in California are plum-shaped. Many people ask what they are. "One day a woman came in here and started to peel one as she would an orange," said a clerk. "She had difficulty, and when I told her to eat them as they are, without peeling, she asked me if I thought she didn't know anything."

High Old Sleeping Place.

After two years' dangerous work, a bedroom has been built on the summit of Mount Blanc. It is attached to the Jannsen observatory, and is meant for Alpinists who have been overtaken by a storm on the summit or lost their way in the snows. A large camp bed occupies all the floor of the room, and can hold 22 persons. The bedroom, which is the highest in the world, is also the most expensive, as every stick and stone had to be carried up by porters from Chamonix. During its erection it was demolished twice and fixed with snow nine times.

BARBARIY OF EPICURES.

They Gloat Over Flesh Food Before It Is Killed for Them.

"Did it ever strike you," asked the observer, according to the New York Press, "that there is something distinctly barbarous about your real epicure, your true gourmet or gastronome? I saw a great turtle lying in a restaurant the other day, flat upon his back, his head tied with stout strings. He was alive, of course, and eyed with a look of sullen and yet puzzled defiance the group which stood about him while the proprietor of the place explained, illustrating with touches of his foot the way in which the creature was presently to be cut up and the varying manner in which the various parts would be cooked. The reptile under discussion was to furnish the group with a 'turtle dinner,' and the mouths of the 'knowing ones' among them fairly watered as the landlord continued his disquisition upon the peculiar excellences of that particular turtle. Those men sat down and ate that turtle in the form of soup, steaks and stew and enjoyed it all the more that they had seen the writhing reptile alive. To me, had I been at the table, the picture of the bound and helpless creature rolling his glaring eyes upon his torturers and his slayers would have arisen before me and taken away my appetite.

"There is a famous restaurant down in the Fulton market which used to have a tank in it—I believe that it has it no more, as epicures nowadays generally cross the bridge—and in that tank fish were swimming about. You could look into the tank, watch the gambols of the fish, select the one you wanted and the waiter would catch and cook it for you. Having seen it alive a few minutes before made its dead body taste better to the epicure."

"A certain restaurant in Brooklyn used to have a back yard in which chickens were running about. It was the proper thing: to sit on the back veranda, pick out a certain fowl, have his head cut off in your presence and then, after it had been cooked, eat it."

"Go into any all-night restaurant on Broadway and order a 'broiled live lobster,' and the waiter will bring you the lobster with his antennae 'wig-gling' and his 'feelers' squirming, to show that he is very much alive. Then he will be broiled alive and you can eat him—if you want to, and most people do."

"It is the same with soft-shelled crabs and various other sorts of sea food. The epicure, or the man who thinks he is an epicure, wants to see the creature alive first to give a zest to his appetite. Mind you, it is not in restaurants where there is a likelihood of the food furnished being stale that this custom prevails, but in those where the reputation of the place and the gastronomic discriminations of the customer almost guarantee that it will be fresh. No, it is the savage instinct of the epicure—the same thing which makes a cannibal gloat over his victim before he kills him for supper."

Baked Beans.

Still another suggestion in baked beans: Put the parboiled beans well seasoned and moistened in a baking dish; prick some sausages, and lay over the top, and cover closely. Bake for the usual length of time, turning the sausages so that they may be browned toward the end of the cooking, when the cover may be removed. Baked sausages are excellent without the beans; if in a sheet-iron pan they can be kept covered until entirely cooked, browning sufficiently. This is a good plan to avoid spattering the stove.

Poor Man!

CREEKS' MEDICINE MAN.

Has Some Singular Convictions to Which He Rigidly Adheres.

The medicine man of the Creeks will not eat anything scorched in cooking, in treating a gun or arrow shot wound he as well as the patient will fast four days, only drinking a little gruel, says the Indian Journal.

He will not allow a woman to look at his patient until he is well or dead. If his patient dies the medicine man takes a lot of medicine himself in order to cleanse himself from the fumes or odor of the dead. The pall-bearers, as we might call those assisting in the burial, also take the same cleansing process.

And again when an Indian committed murder, even in self-defense, he went to the medicine man and took the cleansing remedy, claiming the remedy appeased the crime and the trouble to his mind. The medicine man has a horror of women, keeping out of their company as much as possible. At the full of each moon it was the custom of the bucks to drink medicine made by the medicine man to cleanse their system, in camp the Indian killed nothing which was not eatable.

Boat Riding in Air.

Row, row, row your boat gently down the air is the way one must do with the new aerial rowboat. It has a gas bag roughly cigar-shaped, whose equator is much nearer the front of the bag than usual, and a light frame work supports the occupant. It is raised and lowered, propelled forward and backward by the use of a pair of wing-like oars. By the use of weights the bag can be made to raise just an additional weight half a pound less than that of the occupant. Then gravity is overcome by the use of the oars. Anyone who understands how to row can operate the aerial rowboat, but so far no experienced aeronaut has tried the machine, although several hundred people have rowed up and down the park in Los Angeles, Cal., where the boat is being tested. The bag is 37 feet long and 15 feet wide at its equator. To raise the car and an occupant weighing 150 pounds 2,500 cubic feet of gas is sufficient. A speed of from four to six miles an hour has been attained by good oarsmen.

Up-to-Date Monks.

The monks of the St. Bernard hospice in Switzerland are bound to be up to date. They have purchased an automobile to carry provisions up the mountain. In order not to frighten teams they had a horse hitched to the motor wagon. The government's permission had to be obtained, because of the bridges, some of which were not intended for such heavy loads.

CONFIDENCE AND AMBITION ARE RESTORED IN FRISCO

San Francisco, Cal., April 24.—The new San Francisco, which will rise from the old in its first stages of building today.

After five days of confusion and almost superhuman effort on the part of the citizens of California's metropolis, the great task of sheltering, feeding and otherwise caring for the homeless thousands has been almost completely accomplished. Complete order has been reestablished and attention turned to the future.

Throughout the great district where the devastation of flames was the most complete, walls are being razed, buildings that had not been disintegrated before the intense heat are being inspected with the view of reoccupancy, and even ground is being cleared for the immediate construction of some sort of building in which to resume business at the earliest possible time. In short, confidence has been restored.

The assurance of the insurance companies, the measures taken by financial institutions, the many reassuring messages that have reached the business men of San Francisco from Eastern financial centers—all these things went to clear away any feeling of uncertainty that might have existed in the minds of the timid that San Francisco would not be what it was the great center of population and business on the Pacific Coast.

30,000 VISITORS NOW GATHERING AT REUNION

New Orleans, La., April 24.—Every detail has been completed for the great reunion of the grays. By tonight over ten thousand veterans and twice that number of visitors, according to the most conservative estimates will be the guests of New Orleans.

From one end of the city to the other, the battle flag of the Confederacy is waving.

Already the veterans are beginning to arrive. Special trains from Alabama, Texas and Mississippi came in last night with large delegations. Beginning this morning there will not be an hour through the day that specials bearing the veterans and their friends do not arrive. A reception committee will meet the veterans and welcome them. Uniformed men will be on hand to give them all information. Information booths have been established all over the central part of the city.

So large is the crowd that is coming that additional cots for 1,000 men were placed in Washington Artillery Hall last night. The United Daughters of the Confederacy opened their headquarters at the old Layton House on Chartres street, near Conti.

The Sons of Veterans opened headquarters at the St. Charles Hotel. Commander in Chief Owen of the sons, accompanied by Miss Jinks, the sponsor of the sons, arrived early this morning. Subscribe for the News.

ADA BAND BOYS TAKE STEPS TO REORGANIZE

The band enthusiasts of Ada met at the court house Monday night for the purpose of taking steps to reorganize the band.

Ways and means of perfecting a reorganization of this important adjunct to a higher town life were freely discussed. Mr. Sisson, a talented and experienced teacher of band music was present and submitted a proposition to give the necessary instruction. The enterprise was taken up with enthusiasm. Messrs. John Crawford, Bob Cummings and L. T. Walters were appointed a committee to search for musical talent and to solicit membership. They will report at another meeting Thursday, 10 a. m., at the law offices of Crawford and Bolen.

There are about a dozen of the old guard still in the city and some of the old instruments. The following have signified their desire to join the band: Lee Eddleman, Boss Woodard, M. E. Sangster, Cleve Harris, A. H. Coffman, Carl Meaders, Bob Cummings, L. T. Walters, John Crawford, Albert Russell, Idus Harris, D. Rushing, Chas. Rushing, C. C. Smith.

Of course it will take some hard, conscientious work on the part of the members and some hard cash on the part of citizens generally. But a good band is something a good town needs, just like telephones and sidewalks and other semi-necessities of town life.

Ada must have the band.

Sorosis Closes Club Year.

Sorosis held its last meeting of the session at the home of Mrs. Barton, Friday, April 20th. The year just closed has been a profitable, as well as a pleasant one, to the members. They made a careful study of the play, "Midsummer Night's Dream," each member doing excellent work. At this meeting the members were asked to bring five questions on the play. Mrs. Reed and Mrs. I. M. King, acting as leaders, chose the members and a contest was held. Mrs. King's side won, having answered the greatest number of questions. The discussion, "How Shall we Spend the Summer?" led by Mrs. Reed was very interesting.

The club prize—a beautiful, hand painted china fruit dish—was awarded to Mrs. Barton for being faithful in her work, and for having attended each meeting during the club year.

The new programs for next year were distributed, and many were the compliments paid to the program committee for their work in arranging and to the News for the neat and artistic manner in which they were printed. The members look forward with renewed interest to the beginning of next year, as they will then take up the study of Hamlet in connection with the countries of Norway and Denmark, and their people.

CONFEREES ON STATEHOOD ABOUT TO GET TOGETHER

Washington, April 24.—That the two houses of congress will compromise their statehood differences by agreeing to the second Foraker amendment is now the general conviction. No formal offer to compromise on this basis has been made.

It has been suggested to Senator Foraker, as the leader of the fight against the house bill, and he has shown that such a proposition when made formally will be favorably considered. There is no doubt that the house conferees will offer to make this compromise. The senate conferees will neither accept nor reject it until they learn the sentiment of the senate. The procedure will be, when the offer is made, for the senate conferees to consult those who voted for the Burrows amendment. If they find that most of them are willing to recede from that amendment, they will then accept the proposition of the house conferees.

The statehood bill has been in conference now nearly six weeks. Seldom is a measure kept so long in suspense, even when the subject of it is of the utmost complexity.

But the dilatoriness has been by design. The conferees could and would have disposed of it three weeks ago if they had had any assurance their agreement would be ratified by both houses. As it is, although they have had the bill nearly six weeks, they have not given even the first consideration to the crux of the problem, which is the question, what shall be done with New Mexico and Arizona.

However, they have now reached this part of the bill, and they cannot longer defer the consideration of it without making it palpable to the country that they are trifling with the question.

It is said the Speaker is now quite sensible that he did not choose wisely when he selected the statehood bill with which to "match a fight" with the senate. Public sentiment in this controversy, is altogether on the side of the senate, and the Speaker is becoming cognizant of the fact.

A Remittance From the Philippines.

The News received, Tuesday, a letter enclosing a subscription remittance from Camp Keithley, Moro, Philippine Islands. It is from W. W. Dismukes, the soldier son of our fellow-townsmen, G. B. Dismukes. The letter was posted March 12, showing it was in transit almost six weeks. The News is proud to learn that in some locality, at least, it does not become stale reading matter, though six weeks old.

We wish W. W. every possible success and honor, and they will come to him, we know.

Baseball Laurels for Rhoddy.

Rhoddy Hendrix, the nineteen year old son of Prof. Hendrix, is making quite a record in baseball.

Just a month ago he left here for Tulsa for his first "tryout" on the professional diamond. He has recently pitched some remarkable games, defeating such teams as Oklahoma City and Joplin. He has just been promoted to a position on the Topeka team. In the language of the fans he is developing quite a phenom.

Rushed Back Into Matrimony.

A marriage license has been granted to John Alfred, aged 28, of Lula, and Margaret Lewis, 30, of Conway.

Both parties happen to be fresh divorcees, having been untied just last court.

OVERDRAFTS

It is becoming well known by business men that overdrafts, whether large or small, are not approved by the controller of the currency. The large central banks allow overdrafts only in a very small way, and this, it matters not how small, is not approved by the powers that be. This unbusinesslike habit of overdrafts grew out of advancing on moving products, such as cotton, grain and fat stock on the move. The overdraft system is wrong and the man whose account is always overdrawn is the man who spends more money than he makes and will finally have no bank account.

ARE AT FAULT WHEN THEY GO TO SCOTLAND.

Seem for Some Reason to Make a Bad Impression Among the Scottish People—Some Instances.

United States Consul Fleming, at Edinburgh, explains the reasons for the numerous failures of foreign commercial travelers to effect satisfactory trade results in Scotland. He thinks it is due to unwarranted carelessness in ignoring certain fundamental rules that obtain with Scottish merchants.

"It has been my observation," he writes, "that the average commercial traveler on his first trip to Scotland makes a bad start. It is within bounds to say that six out of every ten American sales agents who have come to this country have not sold enough goods in three months to cover the amount of their expenses for that period. The principal cause for their failure is the false assumption that quality of goods and fairness of prices, and of general terms are sure to bring success. After a time—in some instances a long time—they discover that the foremost requirement is the exercise of prudent caution in taking the initial step toward getting in touch with business concerns.

"In large as well as small Scottish firms, and joint stock companies the management, as a rule, is in the hands of one person. As to companies (including co-operative and all other societies engaged in business) division of authority is seldom frequently seen here than in the United States. Each has a single head, and subordinates have nothing to do with the affairs of the company except to obey the instructions of their chief.

"Take the case of a department store. The so-called head of a department is merely the principal salesman in that branch of the business. He does not purchase for the firm or company, nor is he authorized to act or speak for the firm or company in matters outside of his duty as principal salesman. These facts are supposed by the heads of concerns to be universally known in trade circles, and if a commercial traveler calls on the head of a department or invites him by letter to see goods in a hotel sample room, instead of going directly to the general manager, upon his subsequent introduction to the latter he finds himself handicapped by his mistake—a mistake which he may regard as trivial, but which may create a prejudice against him that will be hard to overcome.

"In the Scottish business world customs, which are unwritten laws, differ from those of America, and of other countries, and it is highly important that a sales agent take care to learn the difference. If he does not, he might better stay at home. Experienced traveling salesmen, American, German, French and Russian, give close attention to the personal element in business. A few instances have come under my notice. A German commercial traveler, the hardware trade when he first visited Edinburgh devoted several days' work of gaining an accurate knowledge of the men having charge of the concerns on the list which he brought with him. A Russian sales agent in the fur trade once informed me that he spent as much time in acquainting himself with the personnel of firms in the cities and towns of Scotland as in afterward placing his goods before the authorized buyers for the various houses.

"An American representative of a well-known machine manufacturing firm said that his capital mistake was in muddling his business from the start by not taking time to obtain full information as to the names, positions and characteristics of the managers of firms and corporations. Three or four months' experience gave him useful lessons, and after that he was remarkably successful. "To call for the 'manager' of the company is a mistake. It is a mistake also to enter the business house of Jones, Smith & Co., and ask for 'Mr. Jones' or 'Mr. Smith.' They may have been dead for 50 years, and nobody of their names connected with the firm since."

To lay one's business before a subordinate is in most cases a grievous mistake. Mr. Fleming says that it is his observation that sales agents who do not conform tactfully to the customs of their stay in Scotland expensive rather than profitable to their employers.

STIFF PRICE FOR THE TEA.

Extortionate Demand of Pretty Actresses at a Charity Entertainment.

Cups of tea were sold at $5 each recently at a fête at the ministry of marine in aid of the Paris Art Orphanage. In addition to this those who took sugar and milk had to pay an extra $2.50 for the privilege of being allowed these luxuries, says the Boston Express.

All the prettiest actresses were selling and all Paris was buying at prices that would have been abnormal were it not for the admirable cause. Mile. Dietrich, the charming blonde, who is credited with possessing the prettiest smile and the most sly laugh in Paris, sold tickets for a lottery for as much as she could get.

Mile. Lavalliere, of the Varieties, sold face powder at the rate of $20 the tiny box. It was Mme. Le Bargy, who not long ago appeared at the St. James' with Mr. George Alexander, who carried out the tea extortion. Mme. Polaire sold sweets, and only took banknotes in payment.

A very large sum must have been realized for the orphanage, which provides for the daughters of artists, authors, actors and musicians who have lived penniless, keeps the girls until they marry and then provides them with a dowry.

THE CHAMFION MEAN MAN.

Bribes Children to Go Without Supper and Steals the Pennies.

"Talk about meanness," said a man from the northern part of the county as he dropped into police headquarters, reports the Binghamton Press, "I believe that we have a man up in our village who is about the limit.

"He had two children and did not seem to care whether they had anything to eat or not. The man was well off financially, but did not like to pay out money for the support of the children.

"Night after night I have known the man give each of the children a penny to go to bed without their supper, and then in the morning he would make them give the penny up before they had their breakfast.

"One morning the children came downstairs and said that they had lost their pennies. The father seemed to be infuriated, but I think that it was only put on.

"He demanded the money before the children could have their breakfasts, and when they did not produce the money he whipped them both and made them go without their morning meal. I think that he stole the money after they had gone to bed."

REMARKABLE RECOVERY.

One Day the Widow Was Inconsolable, the Next as Gay as a Lark.

P. F. Rothermel, counsel for the Lake Superior corporation, as the reorganized Consolidated Lake Superior is called, was complimented the other day on the excellent year that the concern has had, says the Pittsburgh Gazette.

Mr. Rothermel smiled and answered: "Yes, the company has gotten quickly on its feet. It has recovered quickly. It was not badly hurt, after all. And thus it resembles a widow of whom I heard recently.

"This lady's husband died, and, a day or two after the funeral, a neighbor called to extend her condolences.

"She expected to find the widow frantic with grief. She found her at the piano, singing a gay song. And, astonished at so quick a recovery, the visitor said:

"Well, well, I expected to see you in the deepest distress."

"Ah," said the widow, pathetically, "you should have seen me yesterday."

CUPID IN A TRUST.

IOWA PASTORS IN FACT REGARDING MARRIAGES.

Ministers Believe Divorce Is a Necessity and Would Control Weddings and Thus Cut Rate—New Law Is Advocated.

Des Moines, Ia.—To form a trust for the purpose of controlling matrimonial ventures is the latest movement on the part of Des Moines ministers. The plans were discussed at a regular weekly meeting of the Ministerial association, and if they are carried out Des Moines will no longer be the Gretna Green for lovers who have not for months calmly reflected over the logic of matrimony.

After a liberal discussion the ministers came to the final judgment that divorce is now a necessity, because of the improper matrimonial ties, and they propose to cure the social evil by guarding the entrance into the matrimonial fields by the strongest safeguards.

The agitation was started by Rev. Oran W. Pfifer, pastor of Grace Methodist Episcopal church, who declared that he is firm in the belief that no man should put asunder those whom God hath joined together, but he expressed the firm belief that God has little to do with many of the modern weddings. He claimed to have had an interview with Judge William H. McHenry, of the equity court here, in which he learned that fully two-thirds of the divorces were granted in cases where love probably had played a very small part in the marriage. He stated that he believed one of the greatest evils is because men and women plunge into marriage without the proper preparation.

The ministers took up the discussion in a lively manner and practically entered into an agreement that ministers will not in the future marry so indiscriminately.

It has also been agreed that the pastors will demand to know the past history of the participants, their financial condition and their past ventures, if any. It is expected that at the next meeting of the association rules will be drawn up governing the performance of marriages. The ministers will ask the cooperation of the justices of the peace.

It is possible that their present action will result in asking the legislature this winter to pass a law making more stringent requirements for securing a license.

LOVE, LIVE ON $3 A WEEK.

Young Plumber Takes Bride—Both Are Happy on Small Income—Secret Gets Out.

Philadelphia.—If at the lowest possible estimate it cost a mother three dollars a week to board and clothe a growing boy, how can a young man nearly 20 take unto himself a wife and keep her in this sum—without keeping her in want?

This might be a difficult problem for some persons, but James Higgins, a 19-year-old plumber's apprentice, who lives on Stiles street, east of Eighteenth, believes a man can get married and keep a wife in comfort on this meager sum.

Higgins loved 18-year-old Ella Ragan. They recently decided that if two persons were in love, money was of no consequence; they could live on love and kisses.

An elopement followed, and they were married. They decided to go to their homes and keep the marriage a secret until such a time as Higgins should blossom out as a full-fledged plumber, or until a time when his long-dreamed-of increase in wages should come true.

A friend betrayed them, and now all their friends and acquaintances are asking them "if it is true."

CUT SOLDIERS' BURIAL CASH

Bodies of Men Killed in United States Will Not Be Sent Home at Government Expense.

Washington.—The body of a soldier killed in active service cannot be sent home to his relatives at government expense for burial if he dies in the United States. Moreover, the body must be placed in the coffin issued by the quartermaster general's department. This was the decision of the comptroller of the treasury in the case of Private Albert Laste, Twenty-ninth battery field artillery, who was killed at Fort Riley, Kan., last October.

His commanding officer wished to send his body to his relatives for burial and desiring a better coffin than was supplied by the quartermaster's department, which was only allowed to spend $35 for that purpose, he offered to supply the necessary additional funds.

Scarcity of American Ships.

Out of 4,217 arrivals of all classes of vessels from foreign ports at New York last year the American flag flew over only 766 ships. According to figures given out at the bureau office recently 478 of the 766 vessels were steam-powered, and there were five ships, 25 barks, six brigs and 245 schooners among the sailing vessels. In this time there were 2,844 steamships under foreign flags entered at the customhouse, of which 1,355 were British and 521 German.

Farmers Union District Meeting.

The Ada district of the county organization of the Farmers Union held a meeting on Saturday at which there was a fairly good attendance.

The chief matter of importance to come up was the clearing house enterprise, which has heretofore been clearly explained in the columns of the News. The district has concluded, for the present to rent a suitable building in Ada in which to start the enterprise, and a committee of members was appointed to select the building. So soon as the building is secured, the farmers of the district will begin the organized undertaking to distribute their own products.

The Editor's Needs.

A North Dakota paper recently contained the following editorial paragraph:

"It is reported that one of the fastidious newly-married ladies of Harvard, North Dakota, kneads bread with her gloves on. The incident may be somewhat peculiar, but there are others. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on; he needs bread with his shirt on; he needs bread with his pants on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers of this 'Old Rag of Freedom' pays up before long, he will need bread without a d—n on—and Dakota is no Garden of Eden in winter-time."

PRICKLY ASH BITTERS

Is the Greatest Spring Tonic and Blood Purifier on Earth

FIGHTING BLOOD

Fighting blood is pure, rich, vigorous blood. Pure blood is the foundation for an active mind, strong body and bold heart. Not only is it necessary in a trial of physical strength, but equally so in the mighty struggle for worldly wealth. The victim of impure blood is generally half sick, lacks spirit and energy, and is unable to stand the strain of the contest—besides he is in constant danger of contracting some life-threatening disease. To have pure blood the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels must be free from obstructions, and strong in the performance of their functions. This desirable condition can be secured and maintained through the use of Prickly Ash Bitters, the "World-Celebrated" system cleanser and blood purifier. A short course with this great remedy vitalizes the blood and puts the system in good condition, invigorates the body, promotes good appetite, restful sleep and cheerful spirits.

ODD THINGS AT GROCER'S

Some of the Questions Women Customers Ask About Various Things.

"These are the biggest oranges I have ever seen, absolutely," said a woman in front of a basket of grape fruit, according to the Kansas City Star.

"What is the price of those oranges?"

"They are 20 cents apiece," said the clerk. "But they are grape fruit, madam."

"Oh," said the customer, as she went to the other side of the store.

"What is the price of these tomatoes?"

"They are two for a quarter," said the clerk. "They are not tomatoes, they are Japanese persimmons."

"Oh, persimmons! What large ones. Do they 'pucker' your mouth when you eat them, like the ordinary persimmon?"

"No; you will find them very sweet and a delicious fruit."

"I guess that is all, thanks," as she turned and left the store. In came another woman, apparently confident of what she wants to buy.

"I want a couple of heads of dwarf cabbage, please."

"Dwarf cabbage? I don't believe I know what you mean," said this clerk.

"Don't you know? Very small cabbage. I want it for soups."

"I guess you mean brussels sprouts, don't you? They're used for soups and look very much like a miniature cabbage." He shows them to her, and they are just what she wants. They are a very small vegetable about the size of an English walnut. She took more than two, however, as they are 40 cents a quart.

"I want a leek," says a woman.

"What is the price?"

"Leeks sell three for a dime."

"What are they used for? I never did know. I wanted to see them more than anything else, and I'm so glad I called for the right thing."

"They are used for soup."

"I don't guess I care for any to-day," and she leaves.

"Customers seeing leek," said a clerk, "ask quite a few questions about it. Some call it rhubarb." It is a vegetable that grows very much like an onion. It is green and looks something like rhubarb, but it does not have the foliage. The kumquat, a Japanese orange, is especially among the fruits. It was grafted from Japan seven years ago and is grown in the tropical sections of this country. Those grown in Florida are a small, round fruit about the size of a black walnut.

The ones grown in California are plum-shaped. Many people ask what they are. "One day a woman came in here and started to peel one as she would an orange," said a clerk. "She had difficulty, and when I told her to eat them as they are, without peeling, she asked me if I thought she didn't know anything."

High Old Sleeping Place.

After two years' dangerous work, a bedroom has been built on the summit of Mount Blanc. It is attached to the Jannsen observatory, and is meant for Alpinists who have been overtaken by a storm on the summit or lost their way in the snows. A large camp bed occupies all the floor of the room, and can hold 22 persons. The bedroom, which is the highest in the world, is also the most expensive, as every stick and stone had to be carried up by porters from Chamonix. During its erection it was demolished twice and fixed with snow nine times.

BARBARIY OF EPICURES.

They Gloat Over Flesh Food Before It Is Killed for Them.

"Did it ever strike you," asked the observer, according to the New York Press, "that there is something distinctly barbarous about your real epicure, your true gourmet or gastronome? I saw a great turtle lying in a restaurant the other day, flat upon his back, his head tied with stout stings. He was alive, of course, and eyed with a look of sullen and yet puzzled defiance the group which stood about him while the proprietor of the place explained, illustrating with touches of his foot the way in which the creature was presently to be cut up and the varying manner in which the various parts would be cooked. The reptile under discussion was to furnish the group with a 'turtle dinner,' and the mouths of the 'knowing ones' among them fairly watered as the landlord continued his disquisition upon the peculiar excellences of that particular turtle. Those men sat down and ate that turtle in the form of soup, steaks and stew and enjoyed it all the more that they had seen the writhing reptile alive. To me, had I been at the feast, the picture of the 'beyond help' creature rolling his staring eyes upon his torturers and his slayers would have arisen before me and taken away my appetite.

"There is a famous restaurant down in the Fulton market which used to have a tank in it—I believe that it has it no more, as epures nowadays generally cross the bridge—and in that tank fish were swimming about. You could look into the tank, watch the gambols of the fish, select the one you wanted and the waiter would catch and cook it for you. Having seen it alive a few minutes before made its dead body taste better to the epicure."

"A certain restaurant in Brooklyn used to have a back yard in which chickens were running about. It was the proper thing to sit on the back veranda, pick out a certain fowl, have his head cut off in your presence and then, after it had been cooked, eat it. "Go into any all-night restaurant on Broadway and order a 'broiled live lobster,' and the waiter will bring you the lobster with his antennae 'wiggling' and his 'feelers' squirming, to show that he is very much alive. Then he will be broiled alive and you can eat him—if you want to, and most people do."

"It is the same with soft-shelled crabs and various other sorts of sea food. The epicure, or the man who thinks he is an epicure, wants to see the creature alive first to give a zest to his appetite. Mind you, it is not in restaurants where there is a likelihood of the food furnished being stale that this custom prevails, but in those where the reputation of the place and the gastronomic discriminations of the customer almost guarantee that it will be fresh. No, it is the savage instinct of the epicure—the same thing which makes a cannibal gloat over his victim before he kills him for supper."

Baked Beans.

Still another suggestion in baked beans: Put the parboiled beans well seasoned and moistened in a baking dish; prick some sausages, and lay over the top, and cover closely. Bake for the usual length of time, turning the sausages so that they may be browned toward the end of the cooking, when the cover may be removed. Baked sausages are excellent without the beans; if in a sheet-iron pan they can be kept covered until entirely cooked, browning sufficiently. This is a good plan to avoid spattering the stove.

CREEKS' MEDICINE MAN.

Has Some Singular Convictions to Which He Rigidly Adheres.

The medicine man of the Creeks will not eat anything scorched in cooking, in treating a gun or arrow shot wound he as well as the patient will fast four days, only drinking a little gruel, says the Indian Journal.

He will not allow a woman to look at his patient until he is well or dead. If his patient dies the medicine man takes a lot of medicine himself in order to cleanse himself from the fumes or odor of the dead. The pall-bearers, as we might call those assisting in the burial, also take the same cleansing process.

And again when an Indian committed murder, even in self-defense, he went to the medicine man and took the cleansing remedy, claiming the remedy appeased the crime and the trouble to his mind. The medicine man has a horror of women, keeping out of their company as much as possible. At the full of each moon it was the custom of the bucks to drink medicine made by the medicine man to cleanse their system. In camp the Indian killed nothing which was not eatable.

Boat Biding in Air.

Row, row, row your boat gently down the air is the way one must do with the new aerial rowboat. It has a gas bag roughly cigar-shaped, whose equator is much nearer the front of the bag than usual, and a light frame work supports the occupant. It is raised and lowered, propelled forward and backward by the use of a pair of wing-like oars. By the use of weights the bag can be made to raise just an additional weight half a pound less than that of the occupant. Then gravity is overcome by the use of the oars. Anyone who understands how to row can operate the aerial rowboat, but so far no experienced aeronaut has tried the machine, although several hundred people have rowed up and down the park in Los Angeles, Cal., where the boat is being tested. The bag is 37 feet long and 15 feet wide at the equator. To raise the car and an occupant weighing 150 pounds 2,500 cubic feet of gas is sufficient. A speed of from four to six miles an hour has been attained by good oarsmen.

Up-to-Date Monks.

The monks of the St. Bernard hospice in Switzerland are bound to be up to date. They have purchased an automobile to carry provisions up the mountain. In order not to frighten teams they had a horse hitched to the motor wagon. The government's permission had to be obtained, because of the bridges, some of which were not intended for such heavy loads.
